Building funds fall short

The Lee County School Board learned Thursday evening that it must trim back some of the work it wants at Southside Elementary because it lacks the funds.

Project Architect Chuck Trimble said that a hoped for additional $200,000 has not materialized leaving $500,000 more in costs than monies available. The school district has only $2.4 million available in bonding potential for the first phase of the project. Bids price the phase at $2.9 million.

Trimble and Codell Construction Supervisor Blanton Coates shared the bids with the board.

They show Frederick & May Construction of Prestonsburg as the low-bid winner for general trades, masonry, steel and drywall. Those parts are combined in a $1,245,000 bid. However, an examination of the individual bids shows that Frederick & May was only the low bidder for general trades. Their $735,000 is lower than Rising Sun Developing's $974,000.

Rising Sun was lower than Frederick & May for both masonry and steel. Rising Sun bid $348,000 to F & M's $450,000 for masonry. F & M bid $175,00 for steel and Rising Sun had a bid of $100,000.

F & M had the highest bid for drywall at $150,000. Rising Sun bid $143,000 and D & R Acoustics turned in a bid of $82,944.

If Frederick & May's high bids for masonry, steel and drywall had been kept, the total would have been $1,510,000. However, with a combination bid, the company ends with a bid of $1,245,000. That is $20,944 lower than the $1,265,944 for the lowest bids.

The other low bidders and the items bid are: Insulated Roofing Contractors - $134,500 for roof; Consolidated Glazing Contractors - $41,750 for aluminum/windows; Bastin Painting - $39,500 for paint; Martina Brothers - $8,824 for tile; Brewer and Company of West Virginia - $40,125 for fire protection; Frei Plumbing - $700,000 for plumbing/mechanical; Frederick & May - $535,000 for electrical; and Hinkle Contracting - $161,396 for asphalt.

Trimble said he and Coates would return for the board's November 11 meeting with a list of items that might have to be cut from the first phase.

Board Chair William Owens said that Lee County qualified for state assistance with construction except for local passage of a double nickel tax. A proposed nickel tax for buildings and repairs is on this November's ballot in Lee County.

"That knocked us out of $8 million," Owens said. "We'll keep working on it."

Also during Thursday night's meeting, Superintendent Dr. James Evans, Jr., shared the district's state test scores.

As reported in last week's Enterprise, the Lee County School District is rated as proficient/progressing. One school, Southside Elementary, is rated distinguished.

He said the district's 69.3 overall score is higher than Fayette County's 67, Clark County's 67.6 and Powell County's 66.8.

District Finance Officer Zina Gibson reported that General Fund revenues are so far ahead of expenditures by $353,565.

She said she is hopeful that a carryover for the next fiscal year would be $468,000.

Director of Pupil Personnel Ray Shuler reported that attendance for the district at this time is 94.63 percent. That is slightly better than last year's number of 94.41.

Enrollment is down. There are 1,026 students in the district at this time compared to 1,050 last year.

The board approved the purchase of a new handicapped-designed bus for $98,116. A state program helps pay for it.

"Ace" for the seniors

Lee County High School volleyball seniors were honored Tuesday evening before the final regular season game against Morgan County. This year's seniors are Takara Brandenburg, Whitney Caudell, Savannah Pelfrey, Rebecca Shouse, Krystal Spencer and Mollie Thacker along with scorekeeper Brooke Addison. Other members of Coach Angie Hall's team are: Tiffany Bailey, Sarah Frost, Peyton Henry, Kennedy Hudson, Hannah Ingram, Hallie Land, Kourtney McIntosh, Caudee Marshall, Brooklyn Newman, Caitlin Olinger, Lauren Perdue, Angie Smallwood, Haley Tipton, Jenny Tutt, Lindsey Wolf and Rebekah Vires.

Health center bids being requested

The request for bids to renovate the former Peoples Exchange Bank building to become the Lee County Health Center is being published, according to Nesbitt Engineering's Sandy Dunahoo.

Speaking to the Beattyville City Council Monday night, Dunahoo said the process for renovation has moved to the requesting bids stage.

The building is across Center Street from the former health center.

Dunahoo also told the members of the council that the city's sewage pump station in West Beattyville must be replaced because maintenance has become regular and expensive.

She said a preliminary application is being made to Rural Development to see what money might be available.

The station collects all sewage from the community and sends it to the sewage treatment plant.

Also during the meeting, Mayor John Smith said that the city had experienced difficulty with water bills being mutilated at the Beattyville Post Office.

He said that two months of bills were being torn by a mechanical sorter. They were returned to the city where they had to be repaired.

Smith said that anyone who does not receive a bill because of the problem will not be charged penalties.

The city's financial report for September shows that the General Fund was in the red by $44,218 for the month and $41,169 for the year.

Smith said that would change to the positive with new revenue now coming in.

The Garbage Department was in the black by $5,118 for the month and $11,750 for the year.

Sewer was in the black for September by $8,943, but in the red by $1,391 for the year.

Water was in the black by $15,094 for the month and $27,196 for the year.

The council agreed to keep the same employee health insurance provider as it has had because there is only a five percent increase. Smith said that is $7,700 more for the city to pay. The city had budgeted up to a 40 percent increase, he said.

The 2015 Motor Vehicle and Watercraft Property Tax Rate is to remain at .30 cents per $100 of assessed value.

The annual $100 contribution to Trick or Treat on Main was approved.

Smith said the state Highway Department has denied a request to put a stop light at the intersection of Center Street and the Beattyville By-pass.

He also reported that Tourism Director Dedra Brandenburg told him that the Kentucky River Trail Committee is to meet in Beattyville on November 7. He said that the members are to ride a pontoon boat to Lock 14.

Smith also said that he would like the council members to begin thinking about ways to provide incentives to new businesses. Two possible areas, he said, would be payroll taxes and utilities.

Hackers hit Dairy Queen

Dairy Queen customers in Beattyville are among the many throughout the nation that might have had some debit/credit card information stolen.

According to an announcement last Friday from International Dairy Queen, Inc., of Edina, MN, some locations in the country "...had been infected with the widely-reported Backoff malware that is targeting retailers across the country."

The company said an "investigation revealed that a third-party vendor's compromised account credentials were used to access systems at some locations."

County renews lease for state

The Lee County Fiscal Court Thursday afternoon renewed its annual lease agreement with the state for space in the courthouse to the tune of $45,531.

The Child Health/Family Services office rents 5,159 square feet at $9 per square foot.

Also during Thursday's regular monthly meeting, the court approved a $2,283 Area Development Fund allocation to be spent toward 50 Herbie Curbies.

The Treasurer's Report showed that the General Fund has $278,721 in it. The other funds and their amounts as of September 30 are: Road - $407,360; Jail - $51,037; LGFA - $71,149; Ambulance - $33,251; and Solid Waste - $52,308.

Tina Lucas reported that Solid Waste collected $36,691 during the month.

Phyllis McCord of the Rescue Squad asked for and got approval for an affiliation with the Bloodhound Search and Rescue of Kentucky. The BSARKY uses dogs to help locate lost and injured people. There is no cost to the county.

HYPERTENSION LINKED TO COLOR-VISION LOSS

It is important to treat high blood pressure because it can lead to heart attack, stroke, and other serious problems. Now, there is news that hypertension may also lead to vision difficulties. According to a study involving nearly 900 men between the ages of 20 and 60, those with high blood pressure were more likely to have impaired color vision. While researchers were unable to establish a clear cause-and-effect relationship between hypertension and color-vision loss, it is important to report the link. Color vision is a higher order visual function that is important to preserve. As future study helps further explain the effect that high blood pressure might have on vision, there is added reason to control hypertension.

As today's column emphasizes, high blood pressure is not only bad for your cardiovascular system but for your eyes and vision as well. As in most diseases, early detection is important. Let us help you change the way you see the world. At KENTUCKY EYE INSTITUTE, we offer total eye care. For a comprehensive eye examination, we urge you to call us at 606.666.9393 to schedule an appointment. Our goal is to provide you with the most effective eye care. Our office is located at 540 Jett Drive. We specialize in "EYE CARE FOR ALL AGES."

P.S. High blood pressure can give rise to a condition known as "hypertensive retinopathy," which involves damage to the blood vessels in the retina.

The Great Werewolf Hunt

(Editor's Note: Local author Jeff (J.D) McIntosh is sharing one of his stories with us this October – just in time for Halloween. It is in four parts, with the first installment following.)

I need to make a stop first before heading into town. I'll take my secret trail. This rock is burning a hole in my pocket, I just gotta see if it will make it. I know it will.

Fence-Jumpers' a good dog, you can tell a good dog from a bad one, see a good dog will take the lead on a trail. He ain't afraid to scout ahead for Indians, Pirates, Nazis, Werewolves or any other creature or critter you're huntin. Now a bad dog will stay behind you and wait for the first chance to use you as bait so he can run.

Yep, he ain't much of a tracker but he sure can scout. Anyway were heading to my favorite spot on the river. It's a quiet little spot I found last summer while the Sheriff and I were running down a bank robber. It's about a mile or so out. It's a narrow spot about 50 feet to the other bank. On our first visit the Sheriff skipped a rock all the way to the other side. I've tried and tried, but then, I've never had a rock like this!

(Part 2) Deputy Justin and Fence-Jumper

By J.D. McIntosh

Hold on! Fence-Jumpers' got a scent. See the way his tail is stickin up and the fur on the back of his neck is bristled. This is big; it could be the break I'm looking for. Let's go. Yep, look there that's a Werewolf track if I've ever seen one. See how big it is, the size of my hand. Wow gotta be seven foot tall that one. Headed straight for the river. Must be a track from last full moon. It ain't rained much since, lucky for me.

Listen you hear that growl. It was loud and seeped right to the bone. But it's morning. Strange. But that was definitely a Werewolf growl. I wonder if Werewolves get rabies, some critters that only come out at night get rabies, there known to wonder around in the day cause there confused. The Sheriff says that's because the rabies is eating their brain away, kind of like zombies do. (Again I'm not a zombie expert, I'll check with Jimbo later on that.) But if it's a rabid Werewolf I'll have to be extra careful. I only got two more rubber bands left and one six-shot cap. I gotta get to town. But if I leave the trail Fence-Jumper might lose the scent and my chance to get this rock across the river. I'll keep going.

Ok, follow me and stay off the trail. I'll skirt around the edges and use the trees for cover. Keep an eye out and your ears open. Gotta be ready for anything. Did you hear that rustling in the brush over there I think we're being followed. I just gotta make it to the river!

There it is and no sign of any Werewolves so far but I saw tracks everywhere and I even found a fir patch on that limb over there. Look its grey; usually means he's old. That's good and bad.

Good cause that means whatever is out there might not be rabid and if he bits me at least I won't have to worry about that. Bad cause some of the older Werewolves (I mean the really old ones) have been known to be able to change whenever they want, not just during the full moon. And that's good be-

Kentuckians like Kynect coverage as long as it's not called 'Obamacare,' and some don't like to talk about it

By Molly Burchett
Kentucky Health News

Sticks and stones may break your bones, but words will never hurt you—unless you're talking about the word "Obamacare" and its impact on the U.S. Senate race in Kentucky, the only Southern state to have both expanded Medicaid and set up its own health-insurance exchange under the federal health-reform law.

"The Affordable Care Act, known as 'Obamacare,' is a lightning rod in Kentucky, even though the state had one of the most successful rollouts in the nation," Al Jazeera America reports in a five-part series on political issues in the state. The polarizing word is affecting the race between Senate Republican Leader Mitch McConnell and Democrat Alison Lundergan Grimes.

"In a state where 65 percent of registered voters disapprove of President Obama, even those who have signed up for coverage through Kynect don't want to think of it as Obamacare," Libby Casey and Philip Maravilla report.

In May 2013, Democratic Gov. Steve Beshear announced that he would use Obamacare to create the state health-insurance exchange and expand Medicaid rolls to cover Kentuckians earning up to 138 percent of the federal poverty level. That qualified hundreds of thousands of Kentuckians for the federal-state program, including Frank Dixon of Benham in Harlan County.

Dixon's 52-year-old body is damaged from decades working as a mechanic in coal mines where he injured his back, rotator cuff and shoulder. Like many Kentuckians who have worked hard to earn a good living all of their lives but lost jobs due to the mining industry or economic downturn, Dixon is thankful to have medical coverage and food stamps but "kind of ashamed to say it," he told Al-Jazeera:

"When asked if he supports Obamacare, Dixon lets out a long sigh and fidgets in his chair. "I don't know how to answer that," he said. "Some things are left unsaid." An NBC/Marist poll conducted in May found 57 percent of Kentuckians surveyed said they disliked Obamacare. But when asked about Kynect, only 22 percent disapproved. And yet they're basically the same thing."

A different view

By Betty Crabtree

It doesn't appear that some people believe there is a devil. In I Peter 5:8 it says, "Be sober (clear-minded, self-controlled), be vigilant (keep watch, be on guard); because your adversary the devil walks about like a roaring lion, seeking whom he may devour."

Have you ever watched National Geographic on T.V. when they have shown lions and how they are? Even a cat when trying to catch a bird, how stealthily they creep along till they pounce on the unsuspecting victim? Well, that's what the devil, the Serpent, does. That's why we're told to be clear-minded, self-controlled, keeping watch, being on guard. He is a sneaky spirit being whose incessant goal is to "steal, kill and destroy." (John 10:10)

Regardless of whether you realize it he has targeted you (us) as a victim. He knows your name and address, your strengths and weaknesses. Somewhere in the shadows he and his forces lurk, waiting, planning for the moment you're caught off-guard. He desperately hopes you'll be ignorant of his reality so that you'll blame his assaults on somebody or something else.

In Genesis 3:1 it says the serpent (devil) was more subtle and crafty than any living creature of the field. He wants you to blame your actions on others, but get real, he is your enemy! Ephesians 6:12 tells us we don't wrestle with flesh and blood but against principalities, powers, rulers of the darkness of this age, against spiritual shots of wickedness in the heavenly places.

But, when Jesus gave his life on the cross as the sacrifice for the sins of the world, He also redeemed us from Satan's power and dominion over us. (Colossians 2:15) And I John 3:8 tells us, "For this purpose the Son of God was manifested, that He might destroy the works of the devil."

I could go on an on but to finish this thought, Jesus gave us authority over the devil. James 4:7 tells us "submit (ourselves) to God, resist the devil and he will felle from you." There must be a total surrender of ourselves to God. It's not in the nature of the God-begotten to practice and parade sin. If you do, you're fair game! Repent quickly.

The LCHS Marching Band traveled to Pulaski County

By Ethan Havicus

The Lee County High School Marching Band traveled to Pulaski County October 4th for their second performance this season.

With the obstacles of extreme cold weather, high wind, and having to perform twice, concerns were felt across the band.

Nevertheless, the band was up to perform first in prelims. Inconsistencies were more frequent and noticeable and the band was disappointed.

In the prelims awards Lee County placed 4th in class 1A. After awards all of the band directors went to draw for the time slot their band would perform next. Lee County drew the first time slot and would perform first again.

After dressing back into their uniforms, the band went to practice their music and get ready to perform once again. During their second performance the band was used to the weather and gave it their all. After coming off the field the second time the band's mood was a lot better than before. Band member Dakota Ross said "As usual the band went and gave it their all. Despite the freezing wind, the band performed great."

All of the seniors stayed in uniform for the second award ceremony. The bands were judged as a whole instead of classes for the second awards and Lee County Placed 9th out of ten bands. Percussionist Tristan Frye said "It was a great time! The performance was amazing, and we all had fun."

Seniors tour Eastern Kentucky University

By Ethan Havicus

The senior class took a trip to the Eastern Kentucky University campus Thursday October 2, 2014.

During this trip students got to take a look at the campus and student life. At the beginning of the tour, the admissions counselor and a couple current students answered any questions they had in a brief assembly.

Then they split into two groups to tour the campus. During the tour, students got to see many of the major buildings on campus: the library, the student center, the science building, and the arts building to name a few.

After the tour they got to eat lunch in ECU's dining hall. Brianna Dickerson said "Our senior trip to ECU was really great. I learned a lot about the school and would love to attend there." On the whole they enjoyed the experience and learned a lot about ECU.

Chapter 5

"Why can't we enter the contest?" my sister asked in her sweet voice.

"Because neither of us can drive," I explained.

"Why do you need to drive, Woody?" Mom asked. "If it's too far for you to walk, your Dad or I will drive."

"But how can we win the cruisin' part of the contest if we can't drive?" I asked.

"There isn't a cruisin' category, son," Dad answered.

"Yes there is," I said, pointing to the spot. Dad took the newspaper and read the categories aloud.

"Kentucky music, Kentucky art, Kentucky cuisine ... It's 'kwuh-zeen,' silly!" Dad said as he shook with laughter. "I take it that since you can't pronounce the word you probably can't define it.

be thrilled to have you as our guest. We just live a mile or so down the road."

"I'd be obliged, Mr. B. replied. "We can discuss how we're going to win this contest. Speaking of, how about you cuties take a stack of these old newspapers home? You can browse and learn more about Kentucky. Remember, even if the news is old, we can learn many things, especially about the culture of the Appalachian region that I come from."

Mr. B., along with my parents, sister and I walked out the front door. He headed one way, and our family turned in the other direction.

"So I see you guys live east of me, Mr. B. observed. "How will I know when I've reached your house?"

"That will be easy," Mom and Dad laughed as Dad spoke. "Just look for the sign that has a picture of wiener dogs in the yard. You can't miss us."

"Oh, I added when Dad was finished, "there's a patch of grass that's no longer green but yellow." Everyone laughed, though I didn't see what was funny about dead yellow grass.

"Well I'll keep my eyes open for yellow grass then, Mr. B. said as he winked. "See you folks around dinnertime tomorrow."

"Mom, Mr. B. says he's from Kentucky, but it sure doesn't sound like it. He knows things that we've never heard of, and he says goofy phrases like 'sure as shootin' and says winder instead of window and fellar instead of fellow."

"Of course he's from Kentucky, son," Mom said as we walked home. She paused for a minute as if she was searching to find the perfect explanation. "While people of Kentucky share many things in common, there are many differences too. Kentucky has different geographical regions—Western Kentucky, north-central Kentucky, south-central Kentucky and Eastern Kentucky. Western Kentucky is known for Land Between the Lakes, Kentucky Lake and tobacco farms. North-central Kentucky is known for the beautiful horse farms, rolling hills, and the large cities of Lexington and Louisville. South-central Kentucky has Lake Cumberland, Dale Hollow and Mammoth Cave. And of course Eastern Kentucky is known for the coal mines, the gorgeous Appalachian Mountains and Daniel Boone National Forest. Many times, people are shaped based on their surroundings. For instance, since farms are plentiful in Western Kentucky, kids in Western Kentucky grow up learning how to work on farms. Because of the mountains of Eastern Kentucky, there isn't much flat land to farm. However, many work in the coal mines. Boys and girls growing up in Louisville, on the other hand, have more access to the things a big city can bring.

"And even though you and Mr. Blackford both were born in Kentucky, you grew up in different regions.

As far as his phrases and adding "r" sounds to words, that's what you call 'dialect.' Dialect is a regional language that has its own grammar, vocabulary and pronunciation. The Appalachian region of Kentucky is known for its own dialect."

The conversation made our walk home go quickly. I was thinking about how Mr. B. might be missing his home. As we walked through the front door and into the kitchen, I had the most brilliant idea!

“Hackers” from Front

In Kentucky, those involved were: Beattyville, Campton, Greenville, Beaver Dam, Franklin, Louisville (several locations), Winchester, Mount Sterling, Calvert City, Danville, West Liberty, Somerset, Richmond, Lawrenceburg, Eminence, Mount Washington, Grayson, Owensboro, Central City, Middlesboro, Crestwood, Hardinsburg, Prospect, Fairdale, Flatwoods, Greensburg, Brandenburg, Russellville, Elkton, Dawson Springs, Lexington (several locations), Georgetown, Morehead, Cannonsburg, Simpsonville, Bowling Green, Owingsville, Versailles and Paris.

The company says it believes the malware has been contained.

“We are committed to working with and supporting our affected DQ and Orange Julius franchise owners to address this incident,” said John Gainor, president and CEO of International Dairy Queen. “Our customers continue to be our top priority.”

The company is offering free identity repair services for one year to customers in the U.S. who used their payment card at one of the impacted locations.

“County” from Front

The court also agreed to trade the squad’s Argo for a Gator from another squad.

Norma Moore asked about beauty pageants that purport to raise money for homeless people.

County Judge/Executive Steve Mays said the county is not involved in those pageants.

Moore was referred to Beattyville Housing.

Brian Caudill of the Road Department was given an hourly raise from $8.87 to $10.

Cinton Frye, a 911 dispatcher, was increased from $9.21 to 9.75.

Fellow dispatcher Freida Sizemore got a raise from $9.47 to $9.75.

Sheriff Wendell Childers’ bond was increased to $1.5 million. The amount to be paid to the Kentucky Association of Counties is $1,322.

Aaron Davis won the bid for a surplus 1994 Ford Crown Vic. His bid of $350 was higher than Kent Creech’s $305 and Shuler Junk Yard’s $305.

Rodney Ross won a 1996 Chevrolet pickup with a $406 bid. Creech and Shulers again bid $305. Davis bid $400.

Friends of the Library Lunch-A Great Success!

Submitted by Allen Booth

This past Wednesday, October 8, the Friends of the Library held their annual Chili Lunch Fundraiser. This event has evolved into lunch with more than just chili—vegetable soup, vegetable-beef soup, potato soup, and taco soup. The meal provided a choice of soup and sandwich, crackers, dessert, and water. The dessert table was laden with homemade candy, brownies, cakes, and pies. Deliveries were made to businesses in Lee and Owsley Counties.

The Friends of the Library board members are Reva Crabtree, president; Madge Cockerham, vice-president; and Sue Booth, secretary-treasurer. The board would like to thank all who participated in this very successful fund raiser that netted $1,815!

This great organization funds and makes possible the Library Children’s Program. During the school year, there is story hour at the library every Tuesday from 10:30-11:30 a.m. It funds the Summer Reading Program. In the spring, it funds the Easter Fest which includes a huge Easter egg hunt. In the fall, both Beattyville Elementary and Southside Elementary are treated to a special event. Some events from the past included “Exotic Animals,” “Chinese Acrobats” or programs against bullying.

Our hats are off to the Friends of the Library for making these events possible for our children!

French journalist Gilles Paris visited Beattyville last Thursday to meet with the staff of The Beattyville Enterprise. Paris, who is based in Washington, writes for the French daily Le Monde, the nations largest newspaper. He is writing a series on important senatorial races in the country, and wanted to start in Kentucky. He said it was his understanding that Sen. Mitch McConnell’s remark in April that it was not his job to bring jobs gave traction to Sec. of State Alison Grimes’ campaign.

Friends,

I am running to be YOUR next state representative. I have been out in many areas of Breathitt, Estill, Owsley, Lee, and Madison Counties talking to voters about the issues that affect us all.

No matter where you live in the 91st district, there's one thing you can count on; I will work hard for all of the voters in each of the counties that I will represent in the 91st District.

I ask for your vote and support on November 4th. Together we can make the 91st district a better home for our families and neighbors
